Re: work conditions for individuals living with diabetes during COVID-19 crisis

Dear HR personnel

Individuals living with diabetes are at considerably higher risk for serious complications of COVID-19 infections, even with vaccination. As such the usual precautions of social distancing, mask-wearing & hand-washing are more important than ever.

Working from home is the most effective form of social distancing.

If at all possible, employees living with diabetes should be offered the opportunity of working from home. Kindly afford my patient, the bearer of this letter, who is living with diabetes every opportunity to minimize his/her COVID-19 risk.

Yours sincerely,

Tom Elliott
Medical Director
